HISTORY OF NIA REGION IV-A CALABARZON

On September 24, 1972, President Ferdinand Marcos enacted Presidential Decree No. 1, which organized the provinces of the Philippines into 11 regions as part of his Integrated Reorganization Plan (IRP). The IRP created Region IV, known as the Southern Tagalog region, and was the largest region in the Philippines. At this time, Region IV consisted of Batangas, Cavite, Laguna, Marinduque, Oriental Mindoro, Occidental Mindoro, Quezon, Rizal, Romblon, and Palawan. In 1979, Aurora formally became a province independent of Quezon and was also included in Region IV. Executive Order 103 dated May 17, 2002 made great changes to the Southern Tagalog region. Due to its size, Region IV was split into two separate regions, Region IV-A (CALABARZON) and Region IV-B (MIMAROPA). Aurora was transferred to Region III, Central Luzon. Currently, CALABARZON consists of five provinces: Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Rizal, and Quezon.

Formal separation of NIA-Region IV as split region was effected by virtue of NIA Board Resolution 7678-11 adopted in March 11, 2011 and Office Memorandum 26-2011 by Administrator Antonio S. Nangel dated March 29, 2011. Turn-over of stewardship from Efen S. Roqueza, Regional Irrigation Manager to Conrado V. Cardenas, Jr., Interim Officer in-charge was done in April 27, 2011 at Calapan City, Oriental Mindoro.

During this time, the NIA implementation of Rationalization Plan is on-going (2008-2012) and Region IV was rationalized to a six Irrigation Management Offices (IMOs) namely: Laguna-Rizal IMO, Cavite-Batangas IMO, Mindoro Oriental-Romblon IMO, Quezon-Marinduque IMO, Mindoro Occidental IMO and Palawan IMO. After the splitting of Region IV, the six IMOs were divided into two. Region IV-A has retained jurisdiction on Laguna-Rizal IMO, Cavite-Batangas IMO and Quezon IMO.
